Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from Easy Terms a Domestic Comedy in One Act Scene: The dining room of a housekeeping apartment. A door in center of rear wall, backed by interior drop or set piece to represent a hallway. On this wall, by the door, is a speaking tube mouthpiece which is supposed to communicate with the entrance to the building. Dining table down center, with chair on either side. Buffet up left, with dishes, glass-ware and stiver. Large armchair down right. In the armchair, as though thrown there carelessly, is a newspaper folded so that the real estate advertisements are outside. Empty cigarette box on table. These are the necessary properties, but other chairs and furnishings may be used to dress the stage. At rise of curtain, Jimmie is seated at the right of the table. One leg is crossed over the other. His hair is mussed from his having run his hand through it frequently. His manner is discouraged. He absently reaches for the cigarette box, finds it empty and throws it back in disgust; then digs his...
